Join us for AnthroFest 2023! Researchers from Penn State’s Department of Anthropology and the Anthropology Graduate Student Association will be demonstrating the ways in which they study the world. Among other activities, explore how animals, humans, and environments interact; learn about early cave paintings; and practice archaeological methods.

Do you have a mysterious artifact, like a bone, arrowhead, stone, or old piece of pottery? Bring it with you! The experts may be able to help you identify the item!